QUALIFICATIONS OFFERED BY COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

- ▶ When choosing a course, it is important that students ensure that the qualifications offered by the college are recognised
- ▶ The National Framework of Qualifications (NFQ) and Quality and Qualifications Ireland (QQI) advise on qualifications in Ireland.
- ▶ Within the NFQ there are 10 levels of qualifications (Levels 1-10). Courses given by a college or university offer a qualification at a particular “level” of qualification

WHAT IS AVAILABLE AFTER THE LEAVING CERTIFICATE?

Higher Education Institution (Universities/Colleges/Institutes of Technology)

Applications to attend level 6, 7 and 8 courses are made by the student to the CAO system. They identify 20 courses they would like to complete.

Once they have received their leaving cert results, they are offered one course from their level 8 list and one course from their level 6/7 list. They may then choose if either of those courses are suitable and accept that offer.

P.L.C. (Post Leaving Cert. College/Course)/College of Further Education

Applications to a PLC are made directly to each College

Most PLC's require the applicant to attend for interview

Applications for these courses are made after October(approx.) onwards, depending on the individual colleges.

See College prospectus and websites for further details

Depending on the course and qualifications, students who graduate from a PLC may apply for a Job or apply for a place in a Higher Education Institution to continue their studies

Many Post Leaving Cert. Colleges have links with Higher Education Institutes in Ireland and England

WHAT IS AVAILABLE AFTER THE LEAVING CERTIFICATE?

Apprenticeships

An apprenticeship combines learning in an education and training institution with work-based learning in a company. At least 50% of apprenticeship learning is completed in the workplace.

To become an apprentice in Ireland you must be hired by an employer. Apprenticeship employers are formally approved by SOLAS in advance of employing apprentices. Apprentices get a formal contract of employment as part of their apprenticeship.

The minimum age varies from 16-18 years but there is no upper age limit.

Work/Training

Employers will often take on individuals and train them

We encourage our students to work to achieve the best they can in their Leaving Certificate as this will be an advantage when applying for a job or later in life if they decide to take up further study

Many State Agencies/Bodies and Public Services have their own individual application system and will advertise for applications at differing times

Applications to the Defence Forces are made directly to the forces
